State gets own Cold Case Unit

BY JOHN WATERMAN Staff Writer

The Mississppi Bureau of announced the inception of said the unit became active a unit dedicated to closing on a statewide basis on July unsoived cases

The Cold Case Unit stationed in (CCU), Batesville will work with any state law enforcement agency that requests their assistance.

Nearly all of the cases are murders in which the killer or killers were never found.

Warren Strain, director of public affairs for the department of public safety, said that many states did not have police units dedicated entirely to unsolved mysteries.

"A lot of agencies don't have the resources to support a cold case unit," Strain said. "(Ours) is one of the few units in the nation."

Strain said that many unsolved cases can be looked at in a new light, now that technology has made significant advances since many of the files were labeled unsolved.

Even with these new advantages, Strain said, it is possible that the cases could remain cold.

"We don't want to instill any false hope in the families of the victims," Strain

The unit is located in the MBI's crime lab, and will take special advantage of technology and increased manpower to unravel cases that, for whatever reason, remained unsolved.

Commissioner of Public recently Safety Rusty Fortenberry fter a vear and a half long period as a pilot program. The unit is currently working on five cases from around the state. They range from two to 25 years

> Since Mississippi does not have a state police agency, the CCU will be working closely with whatever local law enforcment > agency requested their help. "We only get involved after we've been asked,"

> Fortenberry said. The CCU will be staffed with MBI Investigators, who have traditionally come from the Highway Patrol.

Strain said the unit will be directed by Steve Chancellor, a veteran lawenforcement official with 27 years in the Military Police and the army's Criminal Investigation Division.

Chancellor is also an adjunct professor of criminology at The University of Mississippi in Oxford, which is located only 20 miles away from Batesville.

said Strain that Chancellor's students would have the opportunity to help process cases as part of their studies.

When they moved their old mobile home off the lot and tried to replace it with a newer model, building officials intervened. The Rothwells were told they couldn't move the new home onto the property and that they couldn't return the old trailer to the lot. Now they have no home.

The Rothwells have owned a 50 x 150 lot on Garfield Rd. in Bayou LaCroix Estates for about 17 years. When zoning came in 1997, the area was zoned R-1 and mobile homes were prohibited unless they were already on the property. Old homes couldn't be replaced. Rothwell said he wasn't even in the state at the time and did not read the notices in the paper. But building official Mickey Lagasse said that of all people, Rothwell should be aware of the law. His father just went through an appeal with the Board of Supervisors for the same

Kenneth Rothwell said he replaced the floors and carpeting and thought the home would be an improvement to his old place, which had been damaged when it was rented out for six months while the younger Rothwells got their new business going on Hwy. 43. They lived at the business till they could afford an alarm system, Kenneth

"Who reads those things in the paper," he said. "I pay taxes and in America I should be able to do what I want to on my land, even if my standards are not up to someone else's standards."

Rothwell said that if he had realized the problems he would have, he would have put the money into starting a house. Now, he says, he can't build a house on the 50 foot lot either, that frontage must be 75 feet.

Iraq turning into new Vietnam

Several recent respected nificantly,

Americans now believe that the invasion of Iraq was a mistake, and not worth the lives and money it has cost.

It took over a year and a half for people to come around to that opinion. But they have, and parallels to Vietnam are now being raised.
The Vietnam

War was a great mistake that cost the lives of Americans, at least half of them young men drafted into military service. Our White House leaders repeated that grave mistake, invading Iraq. So far it has cost the lives of almost 1000 Americans, some, sig-

Mississippi, where both Army and Air National Guard units have always bee n an integral part of local community life and infused needed income, is supplying a substantial share of activated Guardsmen. Many fathers, even in their 40s and 50s, have left anxious families waiting at home.

Many state governors meeting last week in Washington voiced objections to decimation of their Guard strengths by federal activation. In Oregon, now entering fire season, half of its Guardsmen have been called up, and 40 percent in adjoining Washington.

phy. Thanks to the local vendors for their support of this event each year, I can't name them all, but maybe if the S.C.E. covered this event more comprehensively we could give them some credit. The reason I'm taking the time to write this letter is because I have participated in this rodeo (with my kids) for several years, but have not read much about it. I think fishing is one of the most wholesome sports to get youngsters that offers some real quality time for both parents and kids. The parents really participate in the process. They are the coach, and this is one of the best places on earth to fish. It also teaches valuable lessons about winning, losing and sportsmanship like no other sport. My daughter Emily was heartbroken, when she lost the 3rd place croaker spot at the very last minute to a fish that weighed 1 oz more, but her eyes lit up and a smile involved in, and it is a sport returned to her face when she received a nice rod & reel for a prize. As hot as it was (and it was hot!), everyone had a great time. There was plenty of cold drinks and bar-b-que for cheap prices. I wish we could read more about this event in the Echo in the future and provide some credit to the hard working folks who make a Saturday afternoon in the summer truly special.

Avoid fall heat stress during school activities

BY LINDA BREAZEALE MSU Ag

Communications Outdoor physical activities in late summer and early fall can be challenging deadly or even Mississippians are not careful to avoid heat illnesses, and children may be at the most risk. More than 300 people die annually from heat-related illnesses, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Many of the people who end up in emergency rooms for heat illnesses and dehydration are children.

Sharon Allen Haynes, area nutrition agent in Bolivar County, said adults should make sure children have plenty of water in their systems before, during and after outdoor activities. Fall athletes and marching members band encounter heat stress more often, but even very young children are at risk.

"Adults may not realize how hot children are because we are not affected by the heat in the same way," Haynes said. "The smaller the child, the faster he or she will absorb heat.

and they do not benefit from sweating as much as adults

Haynes said anyone taking part in activities during the heat of the day should be drinking plenty of water or sports drinks.

Water is always an appropriate fluid replacement, but sometimes people will drink more of the flavored sports drinks," Haynes said. "Colas are typically high in sugars and caffeine, which makes them take longer to absorb into the body, may cause cramping and will increase urine output."

Haynes recommended several snack foods such as bananas, raisins and granola bars to help physical performance in hot weather. Take frequent breaks for fluids rather than waiting longer and drinking larger amounts. People may not feel thirsty until it is too

Paul Mock, head athletic trainer for Mississippi State University, encourages people to build up a tolerance for the heat in the weeks preceding outdoor activities. Whenever possible, choose the cooler times of the day for physical exertion, and wear loose-fitting, light-colored clothing. The subtle symptoms associated with heat illness are often overlooked, resulting in more serious problems for affected athletes.

Arson -- more arrested in Cuevas case

Malon Jack "Buddy" Dawsey was arrested on February 27; while another son, Barry Edward Dawsey was apprehended later by the Federal Bureau of Investigation near Baton Rouge and is in their custody. In Hancock County, (Barry Dawsey) faces one charge of commercial arson and one charge of residential arson in addition to federal charges," Investigator investigation said Wednesday.

"Bryan Dawsey was arrested on a Hancock County warrant by the U.S. Coast Guard while on the ocean-going barge "Nakoa" off the coast of Portland, Oregon, and then turned over to Portland's investigators at the dock."

Bryan Dawsey is being held in the Harrison County Jail on two charges of arson. one count of arson of a business and one count of arson of a dwelling, with no bond set at this time, Roan reported.

Also in connection with the fires, Kerri Menard, 23, and Jeremy Stogner, 29, both of Pearl River LA., were arrested in early July and are lodged in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility. Menard's bond was set at $200,000, while Stogner's, $300,000. Both are charged with one count of commercial arson and one count of residential

A warrant has also been issued for Henry Brandow, 34, of Louisiana, in connection with the two fires, Hurt said.

Cuevas' Grocery was torched on the night of December 4, and was a total loss. Ronnie Cuevas - the store's owner and Hancock Sheriff's County Department's Chief Administrator - and his wife were asleep around 11 p.m. on the night of December 29 when they heard what they thought was someone on their roof.

In an earlier report Cuevas said, "Upon investigating the noise, I heard someone running from the Tom Roan, who is leading roof, jumping to the ground, and running through the woods towards dark Highway 604, and heard a vehicle squealing away."

The Cuevas' residence is also a short distance from where their store was location on Highway 604 in Pearlington.

Cuevas reported, "I fired three shots in the dark at the fleeing suspect, then I discovered a fire on the roof. I grabbed a ladder and a hose and quelled the fire before it fully ignited the can of gasoline, which I am sure would have destroyed my home."

Since the Cuevas store fire, an investigation by a special task force set up by the Mississippi Bureau of jail. Investigation - including officers from the Highway Patrol, the Mississippi Agriculture Investigation Unit, ATF, the Hancock County Sheriff's office, state and county fire marshals have been working on the case. The case is also being investigated by the FBI.

In February, Garber said he felt the arson of the business and attempted arson of the Cuevas' residence and subsequent theft of Chief Investigator Hurt's sheriff vehicle office's "revenge" for an investiga-

Three vehicles were confiscated from the "chop shop" operation. One was the truck which was stolen from Hurt's residence in February.

James Carver, 43, of Pearl River County, was arrested Feb. 25, and at that time was charged with felony theft of a motor vehicle and firearms and felony possession of firearms, his bond was set at $250,000 at the time of his arrest according to jail records. Carver was later charged with one count of commercial arson and one count of residential arson. Also booked on Feb. 26, was Jimmy L. East, 29, also of Pearl River County, who was charged with one county of commercial arson and one count of residential arson, said Roan.

MSU Ag Communications Credit cards seem to be the American way to shop, and youth as young as high school are using them.

Bobbie Shaffett, family resource management specialist with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, said research shows more than 20 percent of American teens have a credit card. Just over half the college freshman have a credit card, but by their sophomore year, 92 percent have at least one.

"College students have more access to credit cards than those who don't go to college. This can be a good thing because it allows them to establish credit," Shaffett said, "However, students need to learn how to manage money and credit at a very early age or they will get in financial trouble and be burdened with financial debt by the time they gradu-dents learn personal financial management in high school, so these are lessons that must come from the parent or they will be unmanageable debt or a ruined credit history."

Shaffett said if minimum payments are made on a $1,000 credit card balance. at 18 percent interest, it will take 12 years and $2,352 to pay off that bill.

Shaffett encouraged parents to teach their children to always pay bills in full and on time. Save for purchases and use the interest on the investment to speed the savings rather than buy it now and pay for the item plus interest over time. In either case, Shaffett encouraged consumers only to buy goods with credit that retain their value so they can be sold in a financial pinch. "What you don't want to use your credit card for is margaritas, groceries, gas or anything that gets used up before the bill is due unless

The goal of the camp is to instill an awareness of the perils of smoking in children, before they have made the decision to smoke. Three field trips to non-smoking destinations, Stennis Space Center, the Pearlington Branch of the Hancock County Library, and tomorrow to the Mississippi Welcome Center give the children a chance to have fun and learn at the same time, said camp volunteer Orealia Marshall.

At each destination, a presentation about the dangers of smoking and the use of tobacco products was integrated into the days activities. On Wednesday, the children listened to a presentation, Tobacco 101, by PATH assistant program director Marcia Freeman.

Freeman told children that there are over 4,000 chemicals added to tobacco products. So far research has identified at least 63 that cause cancer, but more are being identified each day, Freeman said. Though nicotine is a naturally occurring substance in tobacco, she said, there is not a sufficient quantity to cause addiction. Tobacco manufacturers add the additional nicotine to tobacco products that cause nicotine addiction, she said.

The tobacco industry spends 20 billion dollars a year in advertising alone, Freeman said, while the average one pack a day smoker (at $2.25 a pack) spends about $800 a year on cigarettes. Though tobacco products contain over 4,000 chemicals, they are one of the only products on the market that is not required to list ingredients on the

Another person dies of a smoking related illness every 4 seconds, said Freeman, and you don't have to smoke to be a victim. Secondhand smoke can be just as deadly, she said. Secondhand smoke not only contains the harmful smoke, but often ashes and soot too. It takes 3 hours to clear the air in a room for safe breathing after a single cigarette is smoked, she said. Air filters do little to help unless the smoker is blowing the smoke directly into the filter, she said.

Freeman really got the children's attention when she produced two actual lungs, from pigs. The healthy lung was a clear rosy color, the second lung, one that had been subjected to just three years of tobacco smoke, she said, was black with signs of emphysema and lung cancer.

"It's easy to say you won't smoke but harder to say no when a friend asks you to share a cigarette," Freeman said. "That is called peer pressure. What you can do when someone asks you to have a cigarette is get an attitude and say, 'I'm too smart to start."

hottest plants for container gardens is the old-fashioned vinca. Maybe I should not say old-fashioned because the popularity is coming from selections like Illumination and Mojo's Gem.

In a hanging basket, do much the same. If using sphagnum moss-lined baskets, you actually will plant in the bottom of the basket, letting the foliage hang down. Hang the basket high enough to create a great vertical element, with the vinca growing downward 6 to 7 feet.

In these containers, use a light, airy mix that drains well yet does have a good moisture- and nutrient-holding capacity. Heavy potting soil is not a good buy.

Necessary daily watering during the summer months means more frequent feeding also will be needed. Use controlledrelease granules per label instructions, or use a dilut-

PRCC's Brackins cops first-team honors on NJCAA preseason All-American list

Carter, Coleman, Smith, and Steube grab honorable mention status

Pearl River wide receiver Larry Brackins has been named to the NJCAA's 2004 preseason All-American back Bernard Smith, both of first team offense, while four other Wildcat players from last year's MACJC championship squad have earned honorable mention accolades.

Brackins, a 6-foot-5, 215pound sophomore from Dothan, Ala.; joins three other MACJC players cited on the NJCAA's first team, while three other players from around the league were named to the second

PRCC honorable mention selections included defensive end James Carter of Sandy Hook, linebacker Gene Coleman and running Lake Wales, Fla.; and offensive lineman Brad Steube of Pass Christian.

Brackins led the state in receiving yardage a year ago with 772 yards, while his 45 receptions and nine touchdowns were team-high marks. He was named to the All-MACJC first team as a freshman. Coleman started all 11 games for the Wildcats a year ago, finishing his freshman season with a team-high 96 tackles (40 solo, 56 assists), while recording 3.5 quarterback sacks. In addition, he forced one fumble and intercepted one pass. Smith backed up All-State running back Curtis Hayes of Hattiesburg High last year, but played in 10 games and rushed for 216 yards on 38 carries while scoring three TDs. He ran for a career-high 126 yards in PRCC's 52-13 romp over Copiah-Lincoln in last year's regular-season finale. Other MACJC honorees included Jones running back Voncarie Owens, who was also named to the NJCAA's first team offense; while two Northwest players - running back Eldra Buckley and offensive lineman Aylon Putt — were also named to the elite squad.

Hinds defensive end Chad Green and two Jones players Beasley and linebacker Anthony Kellyl - were named to the first-team defense. Mississippi Delta linebacker Tim Bailey was named to the second-team defense.

Pearl River begins its quest for a championship repeat Thursday, Sept. 7, when Itawamba visits for the season opener at 7 p.m.

In all, 60 players from the MACJC's 14-team league were named in the NJCAA's preseason All-American listing, including (listed by school): MISSISSIPPI

Rawls to give 'Magical' performance in BSL

THE SEA COAST ECHO The "Velvet Voice", Lou Rawls will perform two shows at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on August 20th and 21st at 9 p.m. Rawls is known for hits like: "Love Is A Hurtin' Thing," "You'll Never Find (Another Love Like Mine)" and "Dead End Street." Tickets for these performances are: $19.95, $24.95 & $29.95 and are available through the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet.

His voice is distinctive and instantly recognizable as any in music. From his early days in gospel to his collaborations with Sam Cooke; from the "Dick Clark Show" at the Hollywood Bowl in 1959 to opening for The Beatles in 1963 at Crosley Field in Cincinnati; from his monologues in the Seventies that presaged rap music to becoming a "crossover" artist before the term was invented, there has been one constant in Lou Rawls' career - a voice that one critic has called "sweet as sugar, soft as velvet, strong as steel, smooth as butter.

In his 40-some years as a recording artist, spanning an astonishing 70-plus albums, three Grammy awards, 13 Grammy nominations, one platinum album, five gold albums and a gold single, Rawls has epitomized the ultimate song stylist.
